

Freight Document Management

Document Manager provides a powerful, document management solution for freight companies putting all documentation for consignments in order.

Document Manager for freight document management

Rail, sea and air freight handlers can manage many documents for each consignment they handle, ranging from shipping notes, to dangerous goods notes, waybills and bills of lading.

It is important that every piece of documentation is available when required by receipting agents, customs or other parties. Having correct documentation on hand allows efficient loading, unloading, clearance through customs, shipping and tracking – minimising delays, storage charges, fines and lost shipments.

Many shipping containers are comprised of multiple consignments that must be handled and documented separately. The cost and time of handling inbound freight, especially within a cross-dock operation, can rise significantly if the accompanying paperwork is not in order.

Document Manager for freight documentation is a software solution that enables all shipping and delivery documentation to be captured as it is created, and to be made instantly available when required, facilitating problem-free transit.

Putting documents into the right hands faster

Document Manager provides a powerful, document management solution for freight companies, putting all documentation for consignments in order and at the fingertips of those needing to work with the consignment – ensuring smooth, efficient transit.

Document Manager captures consignment-related documentation and associates it with the container number. Documentation can be viewed over the Internet by customers, forwarding agents and customs.

Providing forwarding agents with advanced access to consignment documentation enables more effective planning for goods requiring clearance, or for new forwarding documentation.

Document Manager also accelerates the invoicing process by enabling earlier confirmation of goods received and faster resolution of disputes over shipment details.

The system also makes it very easy for shipping agents to provide compliance documentation when required – to evidence that all documentation is correct and all procedures are being followed.
